City Takoma Park MD

The Still Point in Old Town Takoma Park, MD is looking one licensed acupuncturist to join our team in early 2012. We're busy and growing rapidly due to our fantastic reputation in the press and among loyal clients. Business model is built on a "social entrepreneurship" concept--space is rented and 100% of revenue is paid to the practitioner on a bi-weekly basis. Earning potential is much bigger than at a classic wellness center or spa. We work closely with practitioners, as desired, to become better entrepreneurs and to build full practices. Although ultimately your practice-building is up to you, currently we have clients looking to see someone for acupuncture. This business model works for practitioners who are confident in what they do and who believe they are (or are going to soon be) successful. Those practitioners make for a rock-solid team of healing professionals and our reputation and success proves it. We are looking for DC's finest practitioners and if you are one of them, imagine owning your own practice and earning 70%+ of what your clients pay while being supported by one of the leading wellness centers in the area. See what the Washington Post recently had to say about our business model: <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/09/24/AR2010092405937.html>. We also offer a group health insurance plan to contractors. Interested in learning more? Details Acupuncture Practitioner Wanted I'm looking for a newly licensed, dedicated Five-Element practitioner, Tai Sophia graduate who lives within about ten miles of the office at 5401 Twin Knolls Road in Columbia to practice as an independent contractor. This means it's not a salaried position but rather an opportunity to build your practice here close to where you did your clinical work in one of the most affluent counties in the country. I'm searching for someone with great interpersonal and time-management skills and appropriate talent with computer applications, calendaring, and cell phone. This diligent person will return their patient's phone calls and emails promptly and will keep their patient records in sufficient detail to meet insurance documentation standards. Expectations: Possess a valid Maryland acupuncture license (NAACOM not required) Register for BCBS insurance ($300 fee provided toward any insurance billing service registration costs) Register for malpractice insurance ($250 fee provided toward total cost) Possess good work skills: dependable, energetic, passionate about 5E acupuncture Actively participate in the marketing efforts which include emailing prospective patients, delivering marketing materials to offices, making presentations (scripts, displays, power point presentations provided) Expected to eventually treat 6 - 7 patients per day In exchange: I will provide a fully-equipped treatment-ready office including table, furniture, reference material, table paper, cleaning service, utilities, grounds maintenance, and free, convenient parking. Your monthly rent begins at $300 a month (initially includes two half days plus Saturdays and Sundays) and may increase as your practice grows. Your first 1,000 needles (Serin J 20x30) are provided free. I will provide marketing materials (website content, business cards, postcards, brochures, magnetic car signs, work apparel, fliers, letterhead and envelopes). Compensation: you keep 100% of fee for every patient you bring from clinic or that you generate Graduated scale of split fees for "overflow patients" (I pay any insurance fee out of my share) initially starts at 60/40 of treatment fee. Your share increases with the number of treatments. In addition to this collegial atmosphere, I will offer training in the following modalities, if desired, and as circumstances allow: Hot Acupuncture, Jaw Screening®, Quiet Hands®, Acutonics®, Facial Acupuncture Renewal®, cupping, gua sha Business training also offered: Marketing Your Acupuncture Business, Identify Your Market, Effective Patient Retention, Record Keeping for the Acupuncturist Apprentice Considerations: yes, there is a catch, two them in fact: (A) there is a one-month probationary period and (B) I expect you to commit to serving 18 months in my practice. Comments We are looking for an Acupuncturist to join a large practice in North Carolina. We have a Wellness Center that currently offers chiropractic, mental health counseling, massage, skincare, a massage therapy school and acupuncture/chinese medicine. Our current Acupuncturist, Heather McIver, is leaving. She has grown her practice, over the last 8 year, by adding 6 employees and opening a 2nd office. She now needs to expand her office and move into a larger space. With the number of clients that we currently see as a Center, there would be a great opportunity for a built in clientele for a new Acupuncturist. Can you tell me how to get information to your upcoming graduates and Alumni? Thank you in advance, Bill Norman

Acupuncturists Wanted

Chiropractic office in the D.C., metro area is looking for an acupuncturist to take over for another who is moving. This is a great opportunity for a motivated self starter and will initially be part time but can easily morph into a full time position with the right marketing. We have established patients who were already utilizing the previous acupuncturist. Pay will be based upon experience. Must have valid VA license and liability insurance.
